Biographical Note

Werner Franz Schultze was born on February 3, 1921, in Halle, Germany, to Karl and Martha Schultze. He grew up in Brooklyn, and studied architecture at Cooper Union.

Schultze was drafted on November 5, 1942, and trained at Camp Tyson in Tennessee, and he deployed for the European theatre on May 9, 1943. Schultze was a Sergeant in 102nd AA (Anti-Aircraft Artillery) Barrage Balloon Company, and served in the beach landings in Anzio, Italy in January 1944, and Southern France in August 1944. The journals in this collection are accounts of these beach landings, his day to day life in Europe, and the experience of a German-American in World War II. After the war, Schultze worked for the New York Telephone Company, AT&T, and Pace University.

Werner Franz Schultze passed away on July 27, 2009 in Evanston, Illinois at the age of 88.

Scope and Content of the Collection

The Werner Franz Schultze Collection consists of journals written by Schultze during World War II. In these journals Schultze writes of his first-hand experiences in the Army from being drafted to his transit to boot camp. The journals go into more detail of his experience in Italy and France as a Sergeant in 102nd AA Barrage Balloon Company. The accounts include the beach landings, day-to-day life, thoughts and feelings about the military, being bombed, being a German-American, and many illustrations of maps and diagrams of his life while in Italy and France.

Arrangement

The collection is arranged in chronological order according to Schultze's account of his World War II experience. The collection is contained within in one flat box, and is arranged in one series:

Series One: Personal Journals, 1942-1944, Box 1

The journals are an account of Schultze's experience in World War II.
